

Ms. Cologna's Class Newsletter

February 20, 2017

This week is SEP conferences. I am looking forward to meeting with families to celebrate successes your students have had this year.

If you have not scheduled an appointment yet please contact me so we can set up a time.

This month our class created insects with a guest artist. We will be glazing these pieces and they will be on display for the Art Festival.

The last two weeks our class has been competing in a contest using Lexia Core 5. As a class we logged over 4,000 minutes!

We are working to see if
We can beat those numbers

Students of the Week:

Bella Easley
Mercedes Roark
Salesi Lotaki
Andre Dunn
Ava Bateman
Mannix Drage
Jack Johnson

Skills for February -March:

Math:

Telling time, two step story problems, three digit addition and subtraction with regrouping

Language Arts:

Key details, compound words, multiple meaning words, features of non-fiction text

Science:

Rocks

Writing:

Opinion writing and informational writing
Non-fiction research project

Upcoming Events:

February 22nd-23rd: SEP

Conferences

March 2nd: Book Orders Due

March 3rd: No School

March 8th: Talent Show auditions

March 30th: Talent Show/Art Festival

→ Please contact me to schedule being a Mystery Reader!

→ Contact info:

Jennifer.cologna@slcschools.org

mscologna.weebly.com

Please continue to encourage your student to use ST Math and Lexia Core 5