

Ms. Cologna's Class Newsletter

September 19, 2016

Happy Fall Y'all

The weather is starting to change and we are very busy in class. We have been focusing on completing work, and Class Dojo points get awarded for completed assignments. I have seen the work completion from all students increase significantly. I learned about a great new reading website called Lexia. Students are able to work at their individual reading level to complete lessons. If you would like to get on at home, the information is below.

Students of the Week:

Friendship: Audrina
Honesty: David

Check out Lexia:

Lexiacore5.com

You will be prompted to enter my email address to register your device.

Skills for September:

Math:

Odd and even numbers,
addition and subtraction within 20 with multiple addends

Language Arts:

Characters, setting, events, key details

Science:

Needs and characteristics of living things

Social Skills:

Little Problems vs. Big Problems, Reporting vs. Tattling

Upcoming Events:

September 23- PTA Walk-a-Thon:
please wear good walking shoes!

Scholastic book orders due

September 24- online scheduler opens for SEP conferences

September 30- No School

→ Please contact me to schedule being a Mystery Reader!

→ I am looking for classroom volunteers during our reading group time, 9:30-10:20. Please let me know if you are available.

→ Contact info:

Jennifer.cologna@slcschools.org